Carmen Parsons Sneed is a licensed interior designer with over 30 years of experience in commercial interior architecture, design, and furniture. Carmen is a native Washingtonian and holds a master's degree from Howard University's School of Architecture. She has extensive experience with government and commercial clients in the Washington area on projects of various sizes and complexities. Carmen brings a wide range of experience to each of her projects, including layout and design, specification, and project management, and is well versed in the procurement regulations and policies related to government agencies. Carmen is also adept in working with contractors and construction trade contacts, lighting consultants, and security specialists.

Carmen will lead LUHF's diverse, creative staff to develop highly effective furniture design and ordering details, promoting open communication by working in partnership with the client and design staff to ensure a highly successful project.
