Shauna Stallworth has over 35 years of experience in interior design ranging from designer to project manager to senior vice president of corporate real estate. Shauna is a licensed interior designer with a Bachelor of Architecture degree from Howard University. In each of her projects, Shauna brings extensive experience in the complete project life cycle from the conceptual design stage to the installation and support, which includes but isn't limited to furniture, finishes, color, lighting, flooring (FFE), and required equipment. During each of her projects, Shauna provides design direction, supervision, and administrative operations procedures to ensure timely projects within established budgets.

Shauna has a natural talent for building and empowering strong teams and is part of the client-centered team at LUHF, providing a cohesive partnership with dedicated roles and responsibilities, ensuring each project is a success.
